

IPC Cited in NBC Latino Article

Published on Mon, May 13, 2013

A recent article on NBC Latino drew attention to a recent IPC Fact Sheet, Lost in the Shadow of the Fence. [1] In the Fact Sheet, we pointed out the importance of the economic relationship between Mexico and the United States, and how that should be remembered during the debates around border enforcement. Here's a clip of the NBC Latino article:

"The American public is not getting the full picture of the current state of Mexico's economy and its increasing importance as a trading partner. Mexico is the world's 12th largest economy and America's second largest export market...

The Immigration Policy Center's "Lost in the Shadow of the Fence" [2] states there was a 9.1 percent increase in goods exported to Mexico from the U.S. in just one year, from 2011 to 2012."
