UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON
SEATTLE, WASHINGTON

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT and THE ADVOCATES FOR HUMAN RIGHTS;
Wilman GONZALEZ ROSARIO, L.S., K.T., A.A., Karla DIAZ MARIN, Antonio MACHIC YAC, Faridy SALMON, Jaimin SHAH, Marvella ARCOS-PEREZ, Carmen OSORIO BALLESTEROS, and W.H., Individually and on Behalf of All Others Similarly Situated,

Plaintiffs,

v.

UNITED STATES CITIZENSHIP AND IMMIGRATION SERVICES; UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF HOMELAND SECURITY; Leon RODRIGUEZ, Director, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services; Jeh JOHNSON, Secretary, U.S. Department of Homeland Security, Defendants.

1. Plaintiffs challenge Defendants’ policies and practices of unlawfully delaying adjudication of applications for employment authorization and refusing to issue interim employment authorization. Plaintiffs include individual noncitizens entitled to employment authorization (“Individual Plaintiffs”) and the class members they seek to represent, as well as the Northwest Immigrant Rights Project (“NWIRP”) and The Advocates for Human Rights (“Organizational Plaintiffs”), non-profit legal services organizations in Washington State and Minnesota, respectively, that serve low-income immigrants who are entitled to employment authorization.

2. Employment authorization yields economic benefits not only for eligible noncitizens, but also for the U.S. economy. Individuals who can prove their eligibility to work in the United States earn higher wages than those who do not. Workers who earn higher wages are better able to provide for themselves and their families, pay more in federal and state taxes, and have more disposable income to spend on goods and services produced by U.S. businesses.
Delays by the federal government in providing employment authorization to eligible noncitizens undermine these goals. In fact, employers may be forced to lay off these workers to avoid the risk of fines imposed by Immigration and Customs Enforcement (“ICE”). Moreover, if an asylum applicant does not have an extension of work authorization timely adjudicated and continues to work without such authorization, he or she accrues unlawful presence which may have potentially devastating consequences for future immigration to the United States.

3. When hiring any employee, U.S. employers must verify his or her eligibility to work by examining certain documents that, for noncitizens, commonly include an employment authorization document (“EAD”) issued by the Department of Homeland Security (“DHS”). If an employee presents a time-limited EAD at the time of hire, the employer must reverify the employee’s work authorization prior to its expiration, or the employer may be subject to civil fines for continuing to employ the individual.
4. To obtain an EAD, an eligible individual generally must submit a Form I-765, Application for Employment Authorization, to Defendant United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (“USCIS”), an agency within Defendant United States Department of Homeland Security. By regulation, USCIS must either adjudicate the I-765 application within a fixed time period or issue interim employment authorization. In the case of Individual Plaintiffs, Defendants have done neither, leaving them in a precarious situation, unable to work legally, and at risk of losing their jobs and related benefits, as well as their driver’s licenses in some states.

5. Under the regulations, USCIS is required to adjudicate all applications for employment authorization, except an asylum applicant’s initial request for an EAD, within 90 days. Asylum applicants’ initial requests for EADs are to be adjudicated within 30 days.

6. By regulation, USCIS’s failure to timely adjudicate EAD applications “will result in the grant of an employment authorization document for a period not to exceed 240 days.” 8 C.F.R. § 274a.13(d) (entitled “Interim Employment Authorization”) (emphasis added). Yet, USCIS regularly fails to timely adjudicate EAD applications and never issues interim employment authorization.

7. An August 18, 2006 Interoffice Memorandum from Michael Aytes, then-Acting Director, Domestic Operations USCIS, to Regional Directors, Service Center Directors, National Benefits Center Director and District Directors, affirms the mandatory requirements (at page 3): “USCIS is required to adjudicate a pending Form I-765 within 90 days from the date of receipt. 8 C.F.R. 274a.13(d). Failure to complete the adjudication within this time frame requires the Service to grant an employment authorization document for a period not to exceed 240 days.”
8. The USCIS instructions for the I-765 Application for Employment Authorization provide the agency’s definition of “Interim EAD”:

Interim EAD: An EAD issued to an eligible applicant when USCIS has failed to adjudicate an application within 90 days of a properly filed EAD application, or within 30 days of a properly filed initial EAD application based on an asylum application filed on or after January 4, 1995. The interim EAD will be granted for a period not to exceed 240 days and is subject to the conditions noted on this document.

Form I-765 Instructions at 1 (November 4, 2015).

9. The interim employment authorization process was intended to allow people to work lawfully while awaiting final adjudication of pending EAD applications. In promulgating the regulation, the former Immigration and Naturalization Service (“legacy INS”), now USCIS, recognized “the importance of expeditious processing of employment authorization applications.” 52 Fed. Reg. 16216 (May 1, 1987).

10. Despite this clear mandate, Defendants routinely violate the interim employment authorization rules by consistently failing to issue interim employment authorization to EAD applicants, including Individual Plaintiffs, who have waited longer than the requisite period. In addition, Defendants provide incorrect and conflicting information to applicants who call the agency’s 1-800 customer service number or visit USCIS offices for InfoPass appointments. Defendants’ failure to issue interim employment authorization eviscerates the very purpose of the regulation.

11. Defendants’ policies and practices of failing to adjudicate employment authorization applications within the required time period, and failing to issue interim employment authorization to Individual Plaintiffs who have waited longer than the required time period, violate the governing regulations and the Administrative Procedure Act (APA).

12. Plaintiffs seek declaratory and injunctive relief to remedy Defendants’ unlawful failure to timely adjudicate EAD applications and their unlawful withholding of interim employment authorization in violation of 8 C.F.R. §§ 274a.13(d), 274a.13(a)(2), 208.7(a), and the Form I-765 Instructions. Plaintiffs seek this Court’s intervention to compel the timely adjudication of EAD applications or, alternatively, the timely issuance of interim employment authorization to all noncitizens who have waited the relevant period.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

13. Jurisdiction is conferred on this Court pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1331, as a civil action arising under the laws of the United States, and the Mandamus and Venue Act of 1962, United States has waived its sovereign immunity pursuant to 5 U.S.C. § 702.

14. Venue is proper in this judicial district pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1391(e) because Defendants are officers or employees of the United States or agencies thereof acting in their official capacities. A substantial part of the events or omissions giving rise to the claims occurred in this district, and Plaintiffs A.A., Karla DIAZ MARIN, Marvela ARCOS-PEREZ and NWIRP reside in this district as do many of NWIRP’s clients who are putative class members. In addition, no real property is involved in this action.

PARTIES

15. Plaintiff Northwest Immigrant Rights Project is a non-profit immigration legal services organization founded in 1984. Each year, NWIRP provides direct legal assistance in immigration matters to over 10,000 low-income people from over 150 countries, speaking over 60 different languages and dialects. NWIRP serves the community from four offices in Washington State in Seattle, Granger, Tacoma, and Wenatchee. NWIRP has clients who are noncitizens entitled to employment authorization and challenges Defendants’ policies and practices that unlawfully prevent its clients from legally working in the United States by failing to adjudicate EAD applications within the required time period and denying them interim employment authorization. NWIRP’s clients eligible to receive EADs and interim EADs, who have been subject to unlawful adjudication delays, fall under a number of different EAD eligibility categories, including but not limited to: 8 C.F.R. § 274a.12(a)(3) (refugees); (a)(5) (asylum grantees); (c)(8) (both initial asylum and renewal asylum); (c)(9) (adjustment applicants); (c)(10) (cancellation); (c)(11) (parolees); (c)(14) (deferred action); (c)(18) (order of supervision). Defendants’ practices and policies frustrate NWIRP’s mission of assisting immigrants in obtaining legal status and the right to lawfully work in the United States. Defendants’ policies and practices have caused NWIRP to divert scarce resources to assisting and advising clients whose EAD applications have been delayed, and who have not received interim employment authorization.

16. Plaintiff The Advocates for Human Rights ("The Advocates") is a non-profit human rights organization that provides free legal services to low-income immigrants seeking political asylum. Since 1984, The Advocates has provided free legal advice and representation before federal immigration agencies, immigration courts, and U.S. courts of appeals to noncitizens who have fled persecution in their home countries. Primarily serving asylum seekers in Minnesota, North Dakota, and South Dakota, The Advocates is the largest provider of asylum-related legal services in the region. The Advocates’ three staff attorneys regularly file applications for employment authorization, including initial applications and applications to renew EADs previously granted, on behalf of their own asylum clients and, in some cases, on behalf of asylum clients represented by volunteer attorneys. The Advocates challenges Defendants’ policies and practices that unlawfully prevent its clients from legally working in the United States by failing to adjudicate EAD applications within the required time period and denying them interim employment authorization. These policies and practices force the Advocates to divert scarce resources to assisting and advising clients whose EAD applications have not been timely adjudicated and frustrate The Advocates’ primary mission of helping its clients to apply for asylum. The Advocates’ clients eligible to receive EADs and interim EADs, who have been subject to unlawful adjudication delays, fall under category 8 C.F.R. § 274a.12(c)(8), and include asylum seekers filing both initial requests for EADs and requests to renew EADs.

17. Individual Plaintiffs are all noncitizens eligible to obtain work authorization in the United States, who have filed EAD applications that have been pending with USCIS beyond the regulatory deadline for adjudication, and who would be eligible to work lawfully in the United States but for Defendants’ unlawful policies and practices.

18. Plaintiff Wilman GONZALEZ ROSARIO is a noncitizen granted deferred action who currently resides in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. After receiving deferred action, Mr. GONZALEZ ROSARIO filed an application for employment authorization, which has been pending with USCIS for more than ninety days from the agency’s receipt of the application on April 27, 2015. Mr. GONZALEZ ROSARIO has not received a Request for Evidence on his EAD or underlying application. He completed his biometrics as scheduled by USCIS. Defendants have failed to grant Mr. GONZALEZ ROSARIO interim employment authorization as required by the regulations.
19. Plaintiff L.S. is a noncitizen asylum applicant who currently resides in Beachwood, Ohio. L.S.’s application to renew his EAD has been pending with USCIS for more than ninety days from USCIS’s receipt of the application on November 16, 2015. L.S.’s EAD expired on February 18, 2016. L.S. has not received a Request for Evidence on his EAD or underlying application, and USCIS has not scheduled his biometrics appointment. Defendants have failed to grant L.S. interim employment authorization as required by the regulations.

20. Plaintiff K.T. is a noncitizen asylum applicant who currently resides in Woodbridge, Virginia. K.T.’s application to renew his EAD has been pending with USCIS for more than ninety days from USCIS’s receipt of the application on July 30, 2015. His EAD expired on October 26, 2015. K.T. did not receive a Request for Evidence on his EAD or underlying application. K.T. completed his biometrics as scheduled by USCIS. Defendants have failed to grant K.T. interim employment authorization as required by the regulations.

21. Plaintiff A.A. is a noncitizen asylum applicant who currently resides in Seattle, Washington. A.A.’s application for an initial EAD has been pending for more than thirty days from USCIS’s receipt of his application on January 19, 2016, which was more than 150 days after USCIS received his asylum application. A.A. has not received a Request for Evidence on his EAD or underlying application. He completed his biometrics as scheduled by USCIS. Defendants have failed to grant A.A. interim employment authorization as required by the regulations.

22. Plaintiff Karla DIAZ MARIN is a noncitizen granted deferred action by USCIS who currently resides in Seattle, Washington. After receiving deferred action, Ms. DIAZ MARIN filed an application for employment authorization, which has been pending with USCIS for more than ninety days from the agency’s receipt of the application on August 3, 2015. Ms. DIAZ MARIN has not received a Request for Evidence on her EAD or underlying application. USCIS has not yet scheduled a biometrics appointment for her EAD application. Defendants have failed to grant Ms. DIAZ MARIN interim employment authorization as required by the regulations.

23. Plaintiff Antonio MACHIC YAC is a noncitizen asylum applicant who currently resides in Portland, Oregon. Mr. MACHIC YAC’s application for an initial EAD has been pending for more than thirty days from USCIS’s receipt of his application on December 31, 2015, which was more than 150 days after USCIS received his asylum application. Mr. MACHIC YAC has not received a Request for Evidence on his EAD or underlying application. He completed his biometrics as scheduled by USCIS. Defendants have failed to grant Mr. MACHIC YAC interim employment authorization as required by the regulations.

24. Plaintiff Faridy SALMON is a noncitizen granted deferred action by USCIS who currently resides in Decatur, Georgia. After receiving deferred action, Ms. SALMON filed an application for employment authorization, which has been pending with USCIS for more than ninety days from the agency’s receipt of the application on October 5, 2015. Ms. SALMON has not received a Request for Evidence on her EAD application. Ms. SALMON had her biometrics taken in connection with her deferred action request, but USCIS has not scheduled a biometrics appointment for her EAD application. Defendants have failed to grant Ms. SALMON interim employment authorization as required by the regulations.

25. Plaintiff Jaimin SHAH is a noncitizen international student who currently resides in Chicago, Illinois. Mr. SHAH’s application for an EAD has been pending with USCIS for more than ninety days from USCIS’s receipt of his application on November 9, 2015. Mr. SHAH did not receive a Request for Evidence on his EAD application and USCIS has not scheduled his biometrics appointment. Defendants have failed to grant Mr. SHAH interim employment authorization as required by the regulations.

26. Plaintiff Marvella ARCOS-PEREZ is a noncitizen who currently resides in Tacoma, Washington. On May 22, 2015, when the initial Complaint was filed, Ms. ARCOS-PEREZ’s application to renew her EAD had been pending with USCIS for more than ninety days from USCIS’s receipt of the application on January 12, 2015. Ms. ARCOS-PEREZ did not receive a Request for Evidence on the EAD or underlying application and did not fail to appear for or request to reschedule a biometrics appointment. Defendants did not grant Ms. ARCOS-PEREZ interim employment authorization and denied her EAD renewal application on June 10, 2015. On October 15, 2015, Ms. ARCOS-PEREZ filed another application to renew her EAD, which has been pending for more than ninety days. Ms. ARCOS-PEREZ has not received a Request for Evidence on the EAD or underlying application and USCIS has not scheduled her for biometrics. Defendants have failed to grant Ms. ARCOS-PEREZ interim employment authorizations required by the regulations.

27. Plaintiff Carmen OSORIO BALLESTEROS is a noncitizen who currently resides in Rockford, Illinois. On May 22, 2015, Ms. OSORIO BALLESTEROS’ application to renew her EAD had been pending with USCIS for more than ninety days from USCIS’s receipt of the application on December 29, 2014. Ms. OSORIO BALLESTEROS did not receive a Request for Evidence on the EAD or underlying application and completed her biometrics requirement as scheduled by USCIS. Defendants never granted Ms. OSORIO BALLESTEROS interim employment authorization before approving her EAD application on June 3, 2015.

28. Plaintiff W.H. is a noncitizen who currently resides in St. Louis, Missouri. On May 22, 2015, W.H. was an asylum applicant whose EAD application had been pending with USCIS for more than thirty days from USCIS’s receipt of the application on January 9, 2015.

W.H. did not receive a Request for Evidence on the EAD or underlying application and had not missed or asked to reschedule a biometrics appointment. Defendants never granted W.H. interim employment authorization before approving his EAD application on June 16, 2015.

29. Defendant United States Department of Homeland Security is an executive agency of the United States. As of March 1, 2003, DHS has been the agency responsible for implementing the Immigration and Nationality Act (“INA”), including provisions relating to employer I-9 requirements.

30. Within DHS, Defendant USCIS is the agency responsible for timely adjudicating EAD applications and issuing interim employment authorization when it does not adjudicate EAD applications within the required period, as provided in 8 C.F.R. §§ 274a.13(d), 274a.13(a)(2), 208.7(a), and the Form I-765 Instructions.

31. Defendant Jeh JOHNSON is the Secretary of DHS and has ultimate responsibility for the administration and enforcement of the INA and all other laws relating to the immigration of noncitizens. He is sued in his official capacity.

32. Defendant Leon RODRIGUEZ is the Director of USCIS and has ultimate responsibility for the timely adjudication of EAD applications and the issuance of interim employment authorization when EAD applications are not adjudicated within the required period as provided in 8 C.F.R. §§ 274a.13(d), 274a.13(a)(2), 208.7(a), and the Form I-765 Instructions. He is sued in his official capacity.
STATUTORY AND REGULATORY BACKGROUND

33. When establishing the employment verification system in 1986, Congress differentiated among: (a) documents that establish both employment authorization and identity; (b) documents that establish only employment authorization; and (c) documents that establish only identity. For documents evidencing only employment authorization, Congress identified a “social security account number card” without any restriction as to employment authorization and “other documentation … which the Attorney General [now the DHS Secretary] finds, by regulation, to be acceptable for purposes of this section.” 8 U.S.C. § 1324a(b)(1)(C). Pursuant to this authority, DHS regulations identify eight categories of acceptable documents, including an “employment authorization document issued by the Department of Homeland Security.” 8 C.F.R. §§ 274a.2(b)(1)(v)(C)(1)-(8). Other regulations define which foreign nationals must separately apply for employment authorization. 8 C.F.R. §§ 274a.12(a), (c); 274a.13(a).

34. Applicants for EADs must file Form I-765 with required supporting documents and specify the classification that entitles them to employment authorization. For example, an applicant for adjustment of status to lawful permanent resident may apply for an EAD under 8 C.F.R. § 274a.12(c)(9). Upon verifying that the underlying application for adjustment of status remains pending, USCIS must adjudicate most EAD applications within ninety days from the date of receipt or issue interim employment authorization. 8 C.F.R. § 274a.13(d).

35. Initial EAD applications filed by asylum applicants are subject to a different timetable. An asylum applicant may submit an EAD application at any point after 150 days have elapsed since the date USCIS received his or her complete asylum application. 8 C.F.R. § 208.7(a)(1). USCIS must adjudicate the EAD application within thirty days of the date of filing. Id. In recognition of the economic hardship asylum seekers may face during the asylum application process, this regulation enables them to work lawfully while they wait for their underlying asylum cases to be decided, if their cases are delayed more than 180 days for reasons other than applicant-caused delay. 8 C.F.R. §§ 208.7(a)(1), 1208.7(a)(1); see also 8 U.S.C. § 1158(d)(2). Asylum EAD renewals, however, are controlled by the 90-day rule of 8 C.F.R. § 274a.13(d). See 8 C.F.R. § 208.7(d).

36. Pursuant to 8 U.S.C. § 1324a(a), employers cannot employ lawfully, or continue to employ, an individual who the employer knows is not work authorized. The employer must view certain documents and complete an I-9 form based on these documents to meet the requirements of the law, and to have an affirmative defense to an alleged “knowing hire” violation. 8 U.S.C. § 1324a(a)(3).

37. For more than a quarter-century, the immigration regulations have mandated the automatic provision of interim employment authorization to specified noncitizens if the agency fails to timely adjudicate their EAD applications. Promulgated on May 1, 1987, 8 C.F.R. § 274a.13(d) initially provided for interim employment authorization if the EAD application was not adjudicated within sixty days of receipt. It read:

d) Interim employment authorization. The district director shall adjudicate the application for employment authorization within 60 days from the date of receipt of the application by the Service or the date of receipt of a returned application by the Service. Failure to complete the adjudication within 60 days will result in the grant of interim employment authorization for a period not to exceed 120 days. Such authorization shall be subject to any conditions noted on the employment authorization document. However, if the district director adjudicates the application prior to the expiration date of the interim employment authorization and denies the individual's employment authorization application, the employment authorization granted under this section shall automatically terminate.

38. The preamble to the regulation makes clear that legacy INS’s (now USCIS’s) obligation to issue interim employment authorization is mandatory and intended to remedy agency delay in adjudicating EAD applications:

The final rule requires INS to adjudicate an application for employment authorization within sixty days from the date of the receipt by INS of the application or the date of the receipt of a returned application. Any application for employment authorization not adjudicated within sixty days will result in an automatic grant to the applicant of interim employment authorization for a period of up to 120 days. In promulgating this rule, INS recognizes the importance of expeditious processing of employment authorization applications. As in the case of the rule regarding employment authorizations for certain nonimmigrant extension applicants, this regulation was developed in response to public comment.

39. In late 1994, legacy INS extended the waiting period for interim employment authorization issuance from 60 days to 90 days but exempted initial asylum-based EAD applications from this period, requiring the agency to adjudicate initial asylum EAD applications within 30 days. 59 Fed. Reg. 62284 (Dec. 5, 1994) (effective Jan. 1, 1995).

40. The current regulation reads:

(d) Interim employment authorization. USCIS will adjudicate the application within 90 days from the date of receipt of the application, except as described in 8 CFR 214.2(h)(9)(iv), and except in the case of an initial application for employment authorization under 8 CFR 274a.12(c)(8), which is governed by paragraph (a)(2) of this section, and 8 CFR 274a.12(c)(9) insofar as it is governed by 8 CFR 245.13(j) and 245.15(n). Failure to complete the adjudication within 90 days will result in the grant of an employment authorization document for a period not to exceed 240 days. Such authorization will be subject to any conditions noted on the employment authorization document. However, if USCIS adjudicates the application prior to the expiration date of the interim employment authorization and denies the individual's employment authorization application, the interim employment authorization granted under this section will automatically terminate as of the date of the adjudication and denial.

8 C.F.R. § 274a.13(d) (emphasis added).

41. The agency’s interpretation of the regulations is spelled out in the instructions to the I-765 Application for Employment Authorization, which describes how EAD applicants become eligible for interim employment authorization once the EAD adjudication deadline has passed:

Interim EAD: An EAD issued to an eligible applicant when USCIS has failed to adjudicate an application within 90 days of a properly filed EAD application, or within 30 days of a properly filed initial EAD application based on an asylum application filed on or after January 4, 1995. The interim EAD will be granted for a period not to exceed 240 days and is subject to the conditions noted on this document.

Form I-765 Instructions at 1 (November 4, 2015).

42. Through 8 C.F.R. § 274a.13(d), legacy INS (now USCIS) acknowledged that adjudications of EAD applications have been and continue to be subject to extensive delays. The interim employment authorization regulation is intended to cure harm arising from these delays. Defendants’ failure to grant interim employment authorization in accordance with this regulation leaves EAD applicants at risk of being unable to support themselves and their families as a result of lost jobs or interruptions in employment. In some cases, the lack of employment authorization can result in the loss of driver’s licenses, as well as work-related medical and other benefits. Moreover, Defendants’ actions nullify Individual Plaintiffs’ regulatory right to interim employment authorization while their EAD applications are pending.
43. Since 2013, the American Immigration Lawyers Association (AILA) has raised the issue repeatedly with representatives from USCIS Service Center Operations as well as USCIS headquarters. AILA chapters also have raised the issues of EAD delays in the course of their local liaison efforts with USCIS field offices.

44. At a meeting with USCIS headquarters on April 16, 2015, agency representatives indicated that “USCIS no longer produces interim EADs.”

FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

45. Individual Plaintiffs are suffering and will continue to suffer serious and irreparable harm due to Defendants’ unlawful failure to timely adjudicate EAD applications and to issue interim employment authorization, in violation of 8 C.F.R. §§ 274a.13(d), 274a.13(a)(2), 208.7(a), and the Form I-765 Instructions.

46. On March 12, 2014, Plaintiff GONZALEZ ROSARIO was the victim of a shooting, which resulted in a traumatic spinal cord injury that left him partially paralyzed. After obtaining the necessary law enforcement certification, Mr. GONZALEZ ROSARIO filed a Petition for U Nonimmigrant Status. On March 10, 2015, USCIS placed Mr. GONZALEZ ROSARIO’s application on a waiting list and granted him deferred action.

47. On April 27, 2015, Mr. GONZALEZ ROSARIO filed an application for employment authorization based upon USCIS’s grant of deferred action. USCIS failed to adjudicate the EAD application by July 26, 2015, the ninetieth day after filing. At the time of this filing, 229 days have passed since Defendants became obligated to grant Mr. GONZALEZ ROSARIO interim employment authorization under 8 C.F.R. § 274a.13(d). Defendants have not complied with the regulatory deadline and have failed to grant Mr. GONZALEZ ROSARIO interim employment authorization as required by the regulations.
48. On October 5, 2015, Mr. GONZALEZ ROSARIO’s lawyer emailed a status inquiry to USCIS’s Vermont Service Center (VSC). When the VSC responded by email on October 29, 2015, indicating that the application was under review, Mr. GONZALEZ ROSARIO’s lawyer submitted a request for assistance to the USCIS Ombudsman’s office. On December 8, the Ombudsman’s office indicated that they had contacted USCIS about Mr. GONZALEZ ROSARIO’s case. When his lawyer followed up with the Ombudsman’s office on December 24, 2015, he was informed that an analyst was working on the case.

49. Defendants’ failure to grant Mr. GONZALEZ ROSARIO interim employment authorization has prevented him from securing a Social Security Number or State-issued identification. Without an EAD, he also is unable to obtain a disabled status driver’s license, license plate or parking permit, which he requires because of his mobility issues.

50. On November 16, 2015, Plaintiff L.S. filed an application for renewal of his employment authorization, which had been previously granted in conjunction with his application for asylum. USCIS failed to adjudicate the EAD application by February 14, 2016, the ninetieth day after filing. At the time of this filing, 26 days have passed since Defendants became obligated to grant L. S. interim employment authorization under 8 C.F.R. § 274a.13(d). Defendants have not complied with the regulatory deadline and have failed to grant L.S. interim employment authorization as required by the regulations.

51. In December 2015, at his cousin’s urging, L. S. moved to Beachwood, Ohio, with the intention of obtaining employment and attending graduate school. He timely submitted his change of address form to USCIS. On February 2, 2016, L.S.’s lawyer called USCIS to request expedited processing of L.S.’s EAD application because he needed a valid, unexpired EAD to obtain a driver’s license in Ohio, legally work, and pay for graduate school.
By letter dated February 3, 2016, USCIS denied the request for expedited processing, stating: “Although your situation appears serious, you have not provided evidence to support an extreme emergent need.”

52. L. S.’s EAD expired on February 18, 2016. Defendants’ failure to grant him interim employment authorization has prevented him from obtaining an Ohio driver’s license or employment. He has been relying on his cousin for financial support, but does not know how much longer he will be able to do so. He had planned to enroll in a university program, but because he is financially dependent on his cousin and cannot work, he has only enrolled in limited community college programs.

53. On July 30, 2015, Plaintiff K.T. filed an application for renewal of his employment authorization, which had been previously granted in conjunction with his application for asylum. USCIS failed to adjudicate the EAD application by October 28, 2015, the ninetieth day after filing. At the time of this filing, 135 days have passed since Defendants became obligated to grant K.T. interim employment authorization under 8 C.F.R. § 274a.13(d). Defendants have not complied with the regulatory timetable and have failed to grant K.T. interim employment authorization as required by the regulations.

54. K.T.’s lawyer has contacted USCIS’s National Customer Service Center (“NCSC”) twice since the ninety day-deadline passed. On both occasions, USCIS said that an additional 60 days was needed to make a decision. On January 14, 2016, K.T.’s lawyer sent an email to USCIS’s Vermont Service Center inquiring about the status of K.T.’s EAD application. USCIS responded that K.T.’s application had been assigned to an officer, who would make a decision within 60 days.
55. K.T. was fired from his construction job because he could not provide his employer with proof of employment authorization beyond October 26, 2015. Without a valid EAD, he cannot work and is forced to rely on his family, in particular his U.S. citizen brother, for support.

56. Without a valid EAD, K.T. also lacks an identity document, which has prevented him from enrolling in an electrician training program through which he had intended to acquire the skills and training he needs to qualify for higher-paying jobs than he has held in the past. Before his EAD expired, K.T. also was trying to get a learner’s permit, but he cannot proceed because he has no valid proof of identity acceptable to the Virginia Department of Motor Vehicles.

57. On January 19, 2016, Plaintiff A.A. filed an initial application for employment authorization in conjunction with an asylum application that had been pending since August 19, 2015. USCIS failed to adjudicate A.A.’s application by February 18, 2016, the thirtieth day after filing. At the time of this filing, 22 days have passed since the day that Defendants became obligated to grant A.A. interim employment authorization in accordance with 8 C.F.R. §§ 274a.13(a)(2), 208.7(a), and the Form I-765 Instructions. Defendants have not complied with the regulatory timetable and have failed to grant A.A. interim employment authorization as required by the regulations.

58. Due to Defendants’ failure to timely adjudicate his EAD application or grant him interim employment authorization, A.A. is unable to obtain employment, which has caused him substantial hardship because he has no other means of support while pursuing his application for asylum. He relies on some friends who have been willing to support him while his asylum application is pending.
59. On March 18, 2014, Plaintiff Karla DIAZ MARIN filed a Petition for U Nonimmigrant Status and an application for employment authorization. On February 24, 2015, USCIS issued a notice stating that Ms. DIAZ MARIN appeared eligible for U visa status, but that she would instead receive deferred action because the annual statutory cap for U visas had been reached. The USCIS notice also indicated that Ms. DIAZ MARIN was eligible to apply for employment authorization based on her grant of deferred action.

60. On August 3, 2015, Ms. DIAZ MARIN’s attorney filed a second EAD application, along with a copy of the February 24, 2015 USCIS notice. USCIS failed to adjudicate the second EAD application by November 1, 2015, the ninetieth day after it was filed. At the time of this filing, 131 days have passed since Defendants became obligated to grant Ms. DIAZ MARIN interim employment authorization under 8 C.F.R. § 274a.13(d). Defendants have not complied with the regulatory deadline and have failed to grant Ms. DIAZ MARIN interim employment authorization as required by the regulations.

61. Ms. DIAZ MARIN is the single mother of one child. Due to Defendants’ failure to timely adjudicate her EAD application or grant her interim employment authorization, Ms. DIAZ MARIN is unable to obtain a Social Security number or lawful employment, which makes it difficult for her to support herself and her son and pay for other services they need, such as counseling to mitigate the effects on both of them of domestic violence she suffered.

62. On December 31, 2015, Plaintiff Antonio MACHIC YAC filed an initial application for employment authorization in conjunction with an asylum application filed with USCIS on July 17, 2015. USCIS failed to adjudicate Mr. MACHIC YAC’s application by August 16, 2015, the thirtieth day after filing. At the time of this filing, 208 days have passed since the day that Defendants became obligated to grant Mr. MACHIC YAC interim employment authorization in accordance with 8 C.F.R. §§ 274a.13(a)(2), 208.7(a), and the Form I-765 Instructions. Defendants have not complied with the regulatory timetable and have failed to grant Mr. MACHIC YAC interim employment authorization as required by the regulations.

63. Defendants’ failure to timely adjudicate Mr. MACHIC YAC’s EAD application or grant him interim employment authorization has caused him financial hardship. An eighteen-year-old high school student, he resides with his aunt and uncle, who are pressuring him to contribute financially to the household or find another place to live. Without an EAD, he is unable to obtain employment and thus cannot contribute to rent or other living expenses.
He is also unable to obtain a driver’s license without an EAD.

64. On October 5, 2015, Plaintiff Faridy SALMON filed an initial application for employment authorization based on USCIS’s grant of deferred action on humanitarian grounds due to the special needs of her four-year old U.S. citizen daughter. Ms. SALMON’s daughter is severely autistic and has significant developmental delays for which she receives services that are not available in Ecuador, Ms. SALMON’s country of origin.

65. USCIS failed to adjudicate Ms. SALMON’s EAD application by January 3, 2016, the ninetieth day after filing. At the time of this filing, 68 days have passed since Defendants became obligated to grant Ms. SALMON interim employment authorization under 8 C.F.R.
§ 274a.13(d). On February 18, 2016, Ms. SALMON submitted a status inquiry to USCIS by phone regarding her EAD application, but never received a response. Defendants have not complied with the regulatory timetable and have failed to grant Ms. SALMON interim employment authorization as required by the regulations.
66. Due to Defendants’ failure to timely adjudicate her EAD application or grant her interim employment authorization, Ms. SALMON has not been able to obtain a Social Security number or employment. As a single parent who receives no financial support from the father of her child, she needs to work.

67. Without an EAD, Ms. SALMON cannot receive a driver’s license in Georgia, which would enable her to more easily transport her severely disabled U.S. citizen daughter to special therapy classes. Having a driver’s license also would give Ms. SALMON more options when her daughter has a medical emergency, as happened recently. She currently is limited to calling an ambulance, which is very expensive, or a taxicab or Uber.

68. On January 17, 2016, Plaintiff Jaimin SHAH completed his Juris Doctor degree at The John Marshall Law School in Chicago, Illinois. On November 9, 2015, Mr. Shah filed an application for employment authorization, in accordance with 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(f)(11)(i)(B)(2), based on his law school’s recommendation that he receive approximately ten months of Post-Completion Optional Practical Training beginning in March 2016. The law school gave this recommendation so that Mr. SHAH could gain experience as an associate attorney at Schiff Hardin, LLP’s Chicago office.

69. USCIS failed to adjudicate Mr. SHAH’s EAD application by February 7, 2016, the ninetieth day after filing. At the time of this filing, 33 days have elapsed since Defendants became obligated to grant Mr. SHAH interim employment authorization under 8 C.F.R. § 274a.13(d). Defendants have not complied with the regulatory timetable and have failed to grant Mr. SHAH interim employment authorization as required by the regulations.

70. On February 8, 2016, Mr. SHAH contacted USCIS to ask about the status of his application, which had been pending for more than 90 days. He received an email response on February 9, indicating that his case was in line to be reviewed by an officer and that he should contact USCIS again if he did not hear anything in 60 days.

71. Defendants’ failure to timely adjudicate Mr. SHAH’s EAD application or grant him interim employment authorization has caused him great anxiety. He will experience significant financial hardship if he cannot start his job as planned on March 28, 2016. He would lose $3,000 per week in salary, and would have to continue supporting himself out of his limited savings. Mr. SHAH’s monthly expenses include $1100 for rent and about $400-$500 for other living expenses. He would also miss out on valuable practical training, for which the end date is fixed at January 9, 2017, and is worried about how long Schiff Hardin will allow him to delay his start date.

72. Because Mr. SHAH does not yet have his EAD, he also had to cancel his annual family visit to India, planned for March, which constitutes both a personal hardship and a financial hardship because he incurred flight cancellation fees.

73. On January 12, 2015, Plaintiff Marvella ARCOS-PEREZ filed an application to renew her employment authorization, which had been previously granted in conjunction with an application for asylum. USCIS failed to adjudicate the EAD application by April 12, 2015, the ninetieth day after filing. As of May 22, 2015, 40 days had passed since Defendants became obligated to grant Ms. ARCOS-PEREZ interim employment authorization under 8 C.F.R. § 274a.13(d). Defendants did not comply with the regulation and did not grant interim employment authorization before her EAD application was denied on June 10, 2015.

74. On October 15, 2015, Ms. ARCOS-PEREZ filed another application to renew her EAD. USCIS failed to adjudicate the EAD application by January 13, 2016, the ninetieth day after filing. At the time of this filing, 58 days have passed since Defendants became obligated to grant Ms. ARCOS-PEREZ interim employment authorization under 8 C.F.R. § 274a.13(d).

On January 21, 2016, Ms. ARCOS-PEREZ’s lawyer filed a service request with USCIS because her EAD application was outside of the processing time and was told to wait 60 days for a response. Defendants have not complied with the regulatory timetable and have failed to grant Ms. ARCOS-PEREZ interim employment authorization as required by the regulations.

75. Ms. ARCOS-PEREZ is a widow who resides with and provides support for her twenty-four year-old daughter, who has an intellectual disability. When Ms. ARCOS-PEREZ was granted work authorization after filing her asylum application, she was hired to work at a mattress company. Even with her income, however, Ms. ARCOS-PEREZ relied on her family to provide some of the financial support she and her daughter require. Since Ms. ARCOS-PEREZ’s EAD expired, she has lost her job and has had to seek the help of other family members for financial support.

76. On December 29, 2014, Plaintiff Carmen OSORIO BALLESTEROS filed an application for renewal of her employment authorization in conjunction with a request for renewal of Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA). USCIS failed to adjudicate the EAD application by March 29, 2014, the ninetieth day after filing. As of May 22, 2015, 54 days had passed since Defendants became obligated to grant Ms. OSORIO BALLESTEROS interim employment authorization under 8 C.F.R. § 274a.13(d). Defendants did not comply with the regulatory timetable and failed to grant interim employment authorization before approving her EAD application on June 3, 2015.

77. On April 10, 2015, after Ms. OSORIO BALLESTEROS’ applications had been pending over 90 days, her lawyer requested case assistance from the USCIS Ombudsman’s Office. On May 15, 2015, her lawyer received an e-mail from the USCIS Ombudsman’s Office.
stating that Ms. OSORIO BALLESTEROS’ pending applications were “actively being reviewed.”

78. When Ms. OSORIO BALLESTEROS’ EAD expired on April 21, 2015, she lost her full-time job and her health insurance and had difficulties supporting her three U.S. citizen children and paying her utility and medical bills.

79. On January 9, 2015, Plaintiff W.H., who at that time had employment authorization based on an approved Temporary Protected Status application, filed an application for employment authorization in conjunction with an asylum application that had been pending since March 12, 2014. USCIS acknowledged receipt of W.H.’s EAD application on January 9, 2015. USCIS failed to adjudicate the EAD application by February 9, 2015, the thirtieth day after filing.

80. W.H.’s lawyer called USCIS’s NCSC hotline twice to inquire about the status of W.H.’s EAD. On February 25, 2015, W.H.’s lawyer was told to expect a response by mail within 15 days. On March 3, 2015, W.H.’s lawyer was told that the “application [wa]s currently pending adjudication [but they] regret [they] are unable to provide [W.H.’s lawyer] with a completion date at this time.” W.H.’s lawyer did not receive a response by mail from USCIS.

81. W.H.’s prior EAD expired on March 31, 2015. Due to Defendants’ failure to grant him interim employment authorization, he lost his Missouri driver’s license and was prevented from applying for another license for more than two months, until Defendants finally approved his EAD application on June 16, 2015.

82. Defendants’ untimely adjudication of EAD applications and failure to grant interim employment authorization frustrate NWIRP’s mission, which is to assist immigrants in obtaining legal status and the right to lawfully work in the United States. Specifically, Defendants’ policies and practices have caused NWIRP to divert scarce resources to assisting and advising clients whose EAD applications have been delayed, and who have not received interim employment authorization.

83. NWIRP’s clients eligible to receive EADs and interim EADs, who have been subject to unlawful delay, include members of all three proposed subclasses. These NWIRP clients fall under a number of different EAD eligibility categories, including: 8 C.F.R. § 274a.12(a)(3) (refugees); (a)(5) (asylum grantees); (c)(8) (both initial asylum and renewal asylum); (c)(9) (adjustment applicants); (c)(10) (cancellation); (c)(11) (parolees); (c)(14) (deferred action); and (c)(18) (order of supervision). NWIRP clients are understandably anxious when their EAD applications are not timely adjudicated, and NWIRP staff must respond to client calls and walk-ins, explain the EAD process, the reasons for delay, and the lack of remedies. NWIRP staff make calls to the 1-800 customer service number, set up InfoPass appointments, and email the USCIS Service Centers regarding delayed EADs. NWIRP is not compensated by its clients for this diversion of resources to address delayed EAD adjudication.

84. Due to Defendants’ untimely adjudication of EADs and failure to grant interim employment authorization, NWIRP is confronted with a Hobson’s choice: either NWIRP diverts resources to counsel and assist clients who are experiencing EAD delays, thereby diminishing the organization’s available staff time to provide direct assistance with applications for immigration relief; or NWIRP turns away clients dealing with EAD delays, thereby frustrating the organization’s mission to counsel and assist individuals on their immigration-related problems, which in the case of EADs may impact a client’s very livelihood. If Defendants followed their own regulations and timely granted EADs or interim employment authorization, NWIRP would not face this zero-sum question of whether to reduce the number of clients they serve or reduce the scope of the services they provide to each client.

85. Defendants’ delays in adjudicating EAD applications and their failure to grant interim employment authorization also frustrate The Advocates’ mission of providing legal services to asylum seekers in Minnesota, North Dakota, and South Dakota. Defendants’ policies and practices have caused The Advocates to divert scarce staff resources to resolving and addressing EAD adjudication delays under category 8 C.F.R. § 274a.12(c)(8), including both initial requests for EADs and requests to renew EADs. In addition to fielding calls from and meeting with worried clients, staff attorneys spend considerable time calling and e-mailing USCIS, working with employers to hold jobs open until their clients’ EADs are renewed, intervening with the state on driver’s license issues, and working with agency liaison and congressional offices to try to obtain EADs for their clients. These tasks require significant staff time, forcing the Advocates to divert very limited resources that should be used to screen, place and support asylum cases.

86. There are no administrative remedies for Plaintiffs to exhaust. No other remedy exists for Plaintiffs to compel Defendants to comply with the APA, the INA, 8 C.F.R. §§ 274a.13(d), 274a.13(a)(2), 208.7(a), and the I-765 Instructions.

CLASS ALLEGATIONS

87. Individual Plaintiffs bring this action on behalf of themselves and all others who are similarly situated pursuant to Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 23(a) and 23(b)(2). A class action is proper because this action involves questions of law and fact common to the class, the class is so numerous that joinder of all members is impractical, the claims of the Individual Plaintiffs are typical of the claims of the class, the Individual Plaintiffs will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the class, and Defendants have acted on grounds that apply generally to the class, so that final injunctive relief or corresponding declaratory relief is appropriate with respect to the class as a whole.

88. Individual Plaintiffs seek to represent the following nationwide class:

Noncitizens who have filed or will file applications for employment authorization that were not or will not be adjudicated within the required regulatory timeframe, comprising those who:

1. Have filed or will file applications for employment authorization under 8 C.F.R. § 274a.13, excluding initial applications based on pending asylum applications or requests to renew Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals, but who have not received or will not receive a grant or denial of their EAD applications within 90 days of filing, and who are entitled or will be entitled to interim employment authorization under 8 C.F.R. § 274a.13(d), but who have not received or will not receive interim employment authorization. Applications for employment authorization based on Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals, U or T visa applications, and self-petitions under the Violence Against Women Act are excluded until USCIS has determined eligibility for the underlying immigration benefit or granted deferred action (the “90-Day Subclass”); or

2. Are asylum applicants who have filed or will file initial applications for employment authorization under 8 C.F.R. § 208.7, but who, absent any applicant-caused delay, have not received or will not receive a grant or denial of their EAD applications within 30 days of filing, and who have not received or will not receive interim employment authorization (the “30-Day Subclass”); or

3. Have filed or will file applications for employment authorization under 8 C.F.R. § 274a.13 on the basis of requests to renew Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals, but who have not received or will not receive a grant or denial of their EAD applications within 90 days of filing, and who are entitled or will be entitled to interim employment authorization under 8 C.F.R. § 274a.13(d), but who have not received or will not receive interim employment authorization (the “DACA Renewal Subclass”).
89. The 90-Day Subclass will be represented by Wilman GONZALEZ ROSARIO, L.S., K.T., Karla DIAZ MARIN, Faridy SALMON, Jaimin SHAH and Marvella ARCOS-PEREZ.

90. The 30-Day Subclass will be represented by A.A., Antonio MACHIC YAC and W.H.

91. The DACA Renewal Subclass will be represented by Carmen OSORIO BALLESTEROS.

92. The class is so numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable. Plaintiffs are not aware of the precise number of potential class members because Defendants are in the best position to identify such persons. Upon information and belief, there are thousands of persons for whom Defendants have failed or will fail to timely adjudicate EAD applications and from whom Defendants have withheld or will withhold interim employment authorization in violation of 8 C.F.R. §§ 274a.13(d), 274a.13(a)(2), 208.7(a), and/or the I-765 Instructions.

93. Questions of law and fact common to the proposed class that predominate over any questions affecting only the individually named Plaintiffs include whether Defendants violate the APA and/or 8 C.F.R. §§ 274a.13(d), 274a.13(a)(2), 208.7(a), and the I-765 Instructions by failing to timely adjudicate EAD applications and failing to issue interim employment authorization.

94. Individual Plaintiffs’ claims are typical of the claims of the proposed class. Defendants have failed to timely adjudicate EAD applications and failed to issue interim employment authorization to the Individual Plaintiffs, as well as the proposed class, despite their regulatory entitlement to these documents and their right under the APA to compel agency action unlawfully withheld.
95. The Individual Plaintiffs will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the proposed class members because they seek relief on behalf of the class as a whole and have no interest antagonistic to other class members.

96. The Individual Plaintiffs also are represented by competent counsel with extensive experience in complex class actions and immigration law.

97. Defendants have acted on grounds generally applicable to the proposed class, thereby making appropriate final declaratory and injunctive relief.

DECLARATORY AND INJUNCTIVE RELIEF ALLEGATIONS

98. An actual and substantial controversy exists between the Individual Plaintiffs and proposed class, the Organizational Plaintiffs, and the Defendants as to their respective legal rights and duties. Plaintiffs contend that Defendants’ actions violate Plaintiffs’ rights and the rights of the proposed class.

99. Defendants’ policy and practice of failing to timely adjudicate EAD applications and failing to issue interim employment authorization to individuals who are entitled to receive it has caused and will continue to cause irreparable injury to the Individual Plaintiffs, and the proposed class, and the Organizational Plaintiffs. Individual Plaintiffs and proposed class members are not authorized to work unless they have received and are in possession of valid EADs. Plaintiffs have no adequate remedy at law.

100. Interim employment authorization for Individual Plaintiffs and the proposed class has been or will be withheld due to Defendants’ policies and practices challenged herein. Defendants’ actions constitute final agency action for the purpose of the APA, 5 U.S.C. § 701, et seq.
101. The INA and applicable regulations provide for no administrative appeal from the withholding of interim employment authorization. 8 C.F.R. § 274a.13(c). Accordingly, Plaintiffs have exhausted their administrative remedies.

102. Under 5 U.S.C. §§ 702 and 704, the Individual Plaintiffs, the proposed class, and the Organizational Plaintiffs have suffered a “legal wrong” and have been “adversely affected or aggrieved” by agency action for which there is no adequate remedy in a court of law.

129. Defendants’ failure to timely adjudicate the initial asylum EAD applications of Plaintiffs A.A., Antonio MACHIC YAC and W.H. and the proposed 30-Day Subclass or, where the regulatory time period has elapsed, to issue interim employment authorization, constitutes unlawfully withheld or unreasonably delayed agency action, and is arbitrary and capricious, an abuse of discretion, and otherwise not in accordance with the law in violation of the Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. § 701, et seq.
