

Immigrants in Kansas

Kansas has a small but growing immigrant community. While 1 in 14 Kansans is an immigrant, foreign-born residents make up a larger share of the state's labor force. Construction, an important industry in Kansas, relies on immigrants for 15 percent of its employees. The majority of immigrants speak English well and are naturalized citizens or eligible for naturalization. As neighbors, business owners, taxpayers, and workers, immigrants are an integral part of Kansas's diverse and thriving communities and make extensive contributions that benefit all.

Seven percent of Kansas residents are immigrants, while another 7 percent of residents are native-born U.S. citizens with at least one immigrant parent.

- In 2018, 209,362 immigrants (foreign-born individuals) comprised 7 percent of the population.¹
- Kansas was home to 96,533 women, 98,921 men, and 13,908 children who were immigrants.²
- The top countries of origin for immigrants were Mexico (41 percent of immigrants), India (9 percent), Vietnam (6 percent), Guatemala (4 percent), and China (4 percent).³
- In 2018, 212,366 people in Kansas (7 percent of the state's population) were native-born Americans who had at least one immigrant parent.⁴

Two out of five immigrants in Kansas are naturalized U.S. citizens.

- 83,900 immigrants (40 percent) had naturalized as of 2018,⁵ and 33,700 immigrants were eligible to become naturalized U.S. citizens in 2017.⁶
- Nearly three in four (73 percent) immigrants reported speaking English "well" or "very well."⁷

Immigrants in Kansas are concentrated at either end of the educational spectrum.

- More than one-fourth (28 percent) of adult immigrants had a college degree or more education in 2018, while over one-third (36 percent) had less than a high school diploma.⁸

Education Level	Share (%) of All Immigrants	Share (%) of All Natives
College degree or more	28	34
Some college	18	33
High school diploma only	18	26
Less than a high school diploma	36	6

- 106,933 people in Kansas, including 54,835 U.S. citizens, lived with at least one undocumented family member between 2010 and 2014.¹⁰
- During the same period, about 6 percent of children in the state were U.S. citizens living with at least one undocumented family member (42,661 children in total).¹¹

Kansas is home to thousands of Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA) recipients.

- 5,550 active DACA recipients lived in Kansas as of March 2020, while DACA has been granted to 7,315 people in total since 2012.¹²
- As of 2019, 73 percent of DACA-eligible immigrants in Kansas had applied for DACA.¹³
- An additional 3,000 residents of the state would satisfy all but the educational requirements for DACA, and fewer than 1,000 would become eligible as they grew older.¹⁴

One in 11 Kansas workers is an immigrant, making up a vital part of the state’s labor force.

- 140,374 immigrant workers comprised 9 percent of the labor force in 2018.¹⁵
