

Immigrants in Utah

Utah has a sizable community of immigrants, many of whom emigrated from Mexico. Roughly 1 in 11 Utahans was born in another country, and a similar proportion of residents are native-born Americans with at least one immigrant parent. The majority of immigrants speak English well and are naturalized citizens or eligible for naturalization.

Across sectors, immigrants are an important part of the state's labor force and support Utah's economy. Immigrants represent nearly one-fifth of residents working in the construction industry, while Utah's hotel and food services industry relies on immigrants for 16 percent of its employees. As neighbors, business owners, taxpayers, and workers, immigrants are an integral part of Utah's diverse and thriving communities and make extensive contributions that benefit all.

Nine percent of Utah residents are immigrants, while 9 percent of residents are native-born U.S. citizens with at least one immigrant parent.

- In 2018, 271,222 immigrants (foreign-born individuals) comprised 9 percent of the population.¹
- Utah was home to 125,144 women, 124,062 men, and 22,016 children who were immigrants.²
- The top countries of origin for immigrants were Mexico (35 percent of immigrants), India (4 percent), Venezuela (4 percent), Peru (4 percent), and Canada (3 percent).³
- In 2018, 269,650 people in Utah (9 percent of the state's population) were native-born Americans who had at least one immigrant parent.⁴

Two out of five immigrants in Utah are naturalized U.S. citizens.

- 111,797 immigrants (41 percent) had naturalized as of 2018,⁵ and 44,401 immigrants were eligible to become naturalized U.S. citizens in 2017.⁶
- Nearly four in five (79 percent) immigrants reported speaking English "well" or "very well."⁷

Immigrants in Utah are distributed across the educational spectrum.

- More than one-fourth (27 percent) of adult immigrants had a college degree or more education in 2018, while one-fourth (25 percent) had less than a high school diploma.⁸

Education Level	Share (%) of All Immigrants	Share (%) of All Natives
College degree or more	27	36
Some college	22	37
High school diploma only	26	22
Less than a high school diploma	25	5
